OUR BRIEF

Located on Lower Thames Street, adjacent to Monument and London Bridge, Northern and Shell is a prestigious building overlooking the Thames.

Bayanix won the role of Main Contractor for Halkin's executive area, including composite decking on the 4th floor terrace. An outdoor bar offers additional allure and amenities for both Northern and Shell occupants, the Halkin clientele and wider community.

THE SOLUTION

The Northern and Shell roof terrace and bar had to complement its neighbouring monument, The Shard, and the stunning London city skyline. We focused on creating a landmark that would cement the Halkin brand and elegantly host clients, visitors and staff.

Design & Key Considerations

- › Ryno Deck support aluminium substructure system installation
- › 391m² of AB Black composite decking boards installed
- › Fabrication of steel frame, consisting of steel red oxide box sections welded to for U shape sections with joining rails
- › Timber framework to the front and rear, with timber joists to form the floor of the bar
- › Reconstituted deck boards to the bar floor match the main terrace
- › Marine ply cladding to the rear and front walls

THE RESULTS

Bayanix successfully completed the Halkin Roof Terrace and Bar, as well as the Reception and Executive Lounge at Northern and Shell, London.

The Bar and Terrace have enticed reams of visitors and been a massive hit with Londoners and the Halkin clientele.

“You only need to view the Halkin Roof Terrace and Bar images to understand how captivating and well-designed it is.

Better still, why not join us for some refreshments? Bayanix were a pleasure to work with and thoroughly know their stuff.”
